BROWN FAMILY HISTORY
in part

To Eula a sister
I Love very much
Marie

Until about 1100 A.D. most people in Europe had only one name. As the population increased it became awkward to live in a village where perhaps one-third of the males were named John. So, to distinguish one John from another, a second name was needed.

There were four primary sources for these second names. They were: a man's occupation, his location, his father's name or some peculiar or distinctive characteristic of his.

Here are some examples:

OCCUPATION: The local house builder, food preparer, grain-grinder and suit maker would be names respectively, John carpenter, John Cook, John Miller, and John Taylor.

LOCATION: John who lived over the hill became known as John Overhill; the one who dwelled near a stream might be dubbed John Brook or John Atbrook.

PATRONYMICAL: (father's name) Many of these surnames can be recognized by the termination __ son, such as Johnson, Jackson.

CHARACTERISTIC: An unusually small person might be labeled as John Small, John Short, or John Little. A large man might be named John Longfellow, or John Long. A sly person might be named John Fox.

THE COAT OF ARMS

The Brown Coat of Arms was drawn by a heraldic artist from information officially recorded in ancient heraldic archives.

Documentation for the Brown Coat of Arms design can be found in BRUKE GENERAL ARMORY. Heraldic artists of old developed their own unique language to describe an individual coat of arms.

It is as follows:

"Gu. a Chev. betw. three fleur-de-lis" or when translated the arms description is: Red, a Gold Chevron between three Gold fleur-de-lis.

Above the shield and helmet is the crest which is described as: "A Gold lion ramp. holding in his dexter paw a fleur-de-lis" or when translated, the crest description is: A lion attacking, holding in his right paw a fleur-de-lis.

The family motto is believed to have originated as a battle cry in medieval times. The motto recorded with the Brown Coat of Arms is: Si Sit Prudentia, interpreted: So Sit down Wisdom.

The data in this collection has been gathered from very reliable sources.

The morning of Feb. 22, 1819, Spain transferred Florida to the United States for the sum of five million dollars. At first there was an East and West Florida, both united under Spanish rule.

The first capitol site of the United Florida was selected in 1824. It was a log house built on the southeastern corner of the capitol square in Tallahassee.

Men built houses for their families and worked to raise food. Then came the grits mill, a saw mill, the paper mill, and the oil mill. The oil was used to make printers ink and in tanneries.

The women worked to make their clothing and delighted in wearing them. The daily life centered around the fireplace.

A large orchard or at least a row of fruit trees were planted.

By 1822 Methodist, Baptist, Episcopal, and Presbyterian denominations had laid the foundation for future work in spiritual living.

The earlier settlers also made furniture such as chests, charis, tables, beds and mattresses. The mattress was made either of moss, cotton, or feathers.

The immigrants of that day were earnest and energetic men.

This time was characterized by the establishment of territorial banks, the founding of towns, the beginning of many newspapers, and among the farmers, a period of luxurious living. The prosperity of Florida began with the development of the railroads.

Live Oak became a city on April 24, 1878 with the ending of the Seminole War in North Florida. In 1842, a new influx of settlers came to the area. Population increased and doubled, then tripled.

We are not sure when our family came to Florida, but feel sure it was in 1835.

We feel sure that Grandma Tebitha Gay Brown came from the state of Missouri to Texas where she met Grandpa Isaac B. Brown. They were married in Texas and later moved to Florida.

Grandpa Isaac B. Brown was a descendant of England. His name came from Hebrew and means mirthful or glad.

Grandma Tebitha Gay Brown was uneducated but was very shruide. She couldn't write so she signed her name with an X.

They were parents to eight children and Grandpa died when the youngest child was almost eighteen years of age.
